

Audio Visual Material Ltd. appointed as exclusive UK Distributor for Ashton Bentley

Ashton Bentley™ are proud to announce the appointment of Audio Visual Material (AVM) as their exclusive UK Distributor. AVM will have full demonstration facilities and stock to support their trade network of systems integrators and resellers.

According to AVM MD Mark Nisbet "Ashton-Bentley products are unlike anything else currently available. These systems are very easy to use. With a 'walk in and work' approach to Video Conferencing and Presentations, the systems are as simple to use as possible. The combination of highly intuitive controls and effortless switching between VC and presentation modes sets Ashton-Bentley apart. They really do offer a complete communications system 'out of the box.'"

"Ashton Bentley™ has a very strong customer service focus, and AVM can provide this through their technical support and professional services.. We want the end user to have full confidence in their purchase and should any problems occur know that the manufacturer has the best support network in place. AVM can do this for us" stated Tony Leedham, Director of Business Development for Ashton Bentley.

Ashton Bentley design and manufacture a range of Video Conference, Telepresence and Presentation environments (just add Codec) that simplify all aspects of deployment, operation, support and management. Fully integrated solutions out of a box, assembled in minutes with no tools.

Saving you time, saving you money and making things simple.

Ashton Bentley™ products are designed and manufactured in the United Kingdom.
